At Thirty-fifth street traffic westward will be allowed all day crossing Broadway or turning north into that thoroughfare, and the trip around Thirty-sixth street will be saved, while eastward traffic into and across Broadway will take the same course through Thirty-second street as heretofore.

A new detail has been ordered from the traffic squad to Thirtieth street and Broadway to regulate theatre traffic. Four footmen of the squad will be stationed at thus rount to regulate the core tages and cabs which sometimes block the street there. Cabmen who have no ares will not be allowed to cruise wround, and those engaged will be re-juiced to form lines in the side streets and to maintain their places.

one of the most serious problems with which the Inspector has had to deal. Lines of trucks sometimes form a full day ahead of time in order that the drivers may hold their places and move goods rapidly when they are unloaded from floats or steamers.

Scene of Many Fights.

These lines have been a constant menace to traffic along the river front. Teamsters holding their places for twenty-four hours or more are generally not in good humor and fights frequently follow, disagreements as to places in line. On the plers many disturbances arise from the same cause, and the presence of policemen is absolutely necessary to control these turbulent elements.

In addition to the regular force on the street in the neighborhood about thirty men have been detailed to stand inside the pler sheds ready for emergencies. Thiree mounted men have been stationed on West street for the same purpose. Under the new arrangement the inside men have been returned to patrol duty, and three additional mounted men have been assigned to posts in West street, with instructions to proceed without deday to any point on the street where their services may be needed to arbitrate differences or quell disturbances. The plan has been in operation more than a week and has been found perfectly satisfactory.

Other changes are in the course taken by traffic at congisted points. At Fifty-night street and Fifth avenue heretofore vehicles wishing to turn north have had to cross Fifty-ninth street acrolled to turn north around the Sherman Statue, and the Fifty-ninth street car lines both ways. Now they will be sellowed to turn north around the Sherman Statue, Taffic Route Changes.
